Derek Piotr

Derek Piotr is a Poland-born sound artist currently based in New England whose idiosyncratic works are fundamentally concerned with exploring the limits of the human voice within tightly-wound digital frameworks.

With works that operate at the outer-limits of the human experience, Piotr pushes electronic and acoustic sounds into a continual state of flux - a struggle between the purity of one and the volatility of the other. Straddling this dichotomy is the voice, which is simultaneously the source of narrative continuity and the instrument whose distortion provokes the most unease.
